1. It was really nice to experience coding, python, and computational skills. Since most of the lectures are based on the lab and book, chances of trying a variety of biology related programs in degree courses were limited. However, throughout the final year project and thanks to advice from Dr Maurice, I was able to expand the biological application on the study. He helped meticulously during the project and always answered in detail whenever I had questions.
2. Even though I challenged a computer based project, it was difficult to understand the concept of the project at first because I had no experience in coding before. I fully understood the entire direction at the end of the project. It would have been much nicer if I completed the whole project and repeated it again.
3. trying some new techniques and publishing the article are memorable. I always thought about the career after schooling, but the future was too narrowed only into research. However, this project helped gain self-confidence and motivation to not just crouch down but utilize what I have.
4. it took a while to get accustomed to the programs. I searched on Youtube and read the provided articles, but the contents were too extensive that I couldn't figure out how to apply the knowledge into the project. I think it would be nicer if there are some demonstrations of how to use the computational programs.

Sorry for the late reply,

Thank you

Best Regards

Greetings Dr Maurice Ling,

> 1. What is/are good?

Frequent interactions in group chat and meetings with one to one supervision during meetings. Aid us to the right path or direction by providing papers that might help not just in the topic but also the manner of writing.

> 2. What is/are bad?

Sometimes for me I need to search abit more after each meeting cause some terms and explanation I forget

> 3. What you like?

Very informative and knowledgeable person also care about each and every individual while also being realistic by telling us when we are getting lazy or not doing things right.

> 4. What you prefer to have?

Nothing really all is good

With regards,
Hykal Hassan

Dear Dr Ling,

1. Interactions with students, cracks jokes to make students feel comfortable for discussion, doesn't give students pressure, always helpful and responsive every time even after meeting sessions, doesn't sugarcoat and tells your mistakes directly.

2. Overestimates students capability to understand his teachings.

3. Energy he gives, enthusiasm for his work, how he treats students like his friends.

4. Prefer to have a year-long project instead of a semester-long project. Have more modules with him.

Thank you.

Best regards,
Victor

1) Since I lack in programming skills having a patient supervisor who answered my queries was good.
2) A bit short tempered but it's okay as it made me work harder.
3) Actively conducting meetings, going through our work and giving a honest feedback which helped me improve my work.
4) I was satisfied with everything and don't wish for anything more.

Hello Dr Maurice,

1. What is/are good? - one to one explanation regarding project and software
2. What is/are bad? - some difficulty with computer software at home, but was resolved quickly via WhatsApp/ group meeting
3. What you like? - encourage us to think beyond our project, and to gain understanding for possible future research
4. What you prefer to have? - nil

Regards,
Tan Xue Ting (Sharon)
